A Night Out in Brooklyn

The Cirque du Soleil show, Toruk: The First Flight, based on the blockbuster movie Avatar, will play at the Barclays Center in Brooklyn from September 7 to 11. Billed as a prequel to the film, Toruk recreates the story with puppetry, staging and a cinematic score. After the show, travelers can skip the traffic and spend the night at the nearby, newly renovated New York Marriott at the Brooklyn Bridge. The 665-room Marriott has a full-service spa, indoor pool and the M Club Lounge, a comfortable space to unwind. Rooms from $199, marriott.com

The Metrograph, a new boutique movie theater on the Lower East Side, screens independent films as well as old classics. This month, the theater will offer a retrospective on Maggie Cheung, the Chinese actress, chanteuse, action movie heroine and star of the critically acclaimed In the Mood For Love. Come for the films, then explore the theater's balcony-level bookstore and old Hollywood-inspired eatery, The Metrograph Commissary. Try the steak tartare with fried capers and spiced mustard or the "Jack Lemmon salad" with radishes, sunflower seeds and citrus. metrograph.com
